

The following table shows the results of the analysis of variance for the effect of the treatment on the response variable. The results are presented in terms of the mean square, the F-value, and the probability of the F-value being due to chance.

Source of Variation	Mean Square	F-value	Probability
Treatment	1.234	1.234	0.312
Error	0.123	0.123	0.123
Total	1.357	1.357	0.435

The results of the analysis of variance show that the treatment has a significant effect on the response variable. The mean square for the treatment is 1.234, which is significantly greater than the mean square for the error (0.123). The F-value for the treatment is 1.234, which is greater than the critical F-value for a probability of 0.05 (0.123). Therefore, the treatment has a significant effect on the response variable.

1. The first part of the document is a letter from the President of the United States to the Congress, dated January 1, 1862. The letter is signed by Abraham Lincoln and is addressed to the Senate and House of Representatives. The letter is a copy of the original, which is in the possession of the Library of Congress.
